

Italian 128. Italian Migrations

M/W/F 12:10-1:00pm

CRN 55612

No Pre-Requisites

GE: AH, OL, WC & WE

One of the largest voluntary migrations in human history, Italian migration can tell us the story of why people migrate, and why they return. “Italian Migrations” (ITA 128) studies Italians during their unplanned or state-sponsored migrations, through South America, East Africa, Brooklyn, and the Mediterranean Sea. We compare Italian experiences of emigration with American ideas about immigration and learn of debates about immigration to Europe and Italy today.
